

Delivering Intelligent Software Solutions

For medical professionals effectively managing workload and cost is crucial. AES Medical works in close partnership with clients to provide cost effective and efficient solutions.

PROBLEM SOLVERS

Staff at AES Medical are highly experienced in laboratory work. Their knowledge and expertise enables them to quickly grasp the demands and problems that consultant pathologists, laboratory managers and cancer networks face. As a result clients benefit from intelligent software solutions that make managing information and data reporting simple.

THE END PRODUCT

The core product supporting this process is PathoSys[®]. Designed in-house, in conjunction with consultant pathologists, it is the only software system to be recognised by the Royal College of Pathologists. As well as minimising the time and effort required for report generation, PathoSys[®] delivers high quality data for lab managers and enables rapid data transfer to cancer registries. AES Medical also distributes a range of management and scheduling systems to the NHS.

Built on in-depth understanding of the environments they serve, AES Medical's intelligent software solutions empower users to optimise resources and deliver accurate results at speed.
